

0. The Chicken and the Egg

All begins with a thought. A thought can represent one or several, including sound, wave, frequency, energy, and consciousness. This is true, not because the religion or their bible said so, but because I have written here for I have first thought.

With a thought, you can manifest reality. This is true, not because I said so, but because my thoughts have manifested into reality. The statement is true, because it is based on both Proof-of-proof<sup>1</sup> as well as Proof-of-utopia<sup>2</sup>, while it can also be proved to be true. The mere act of thinking has created a reality, a reality in which i thought. This is written rhetoric, because we must start to think. Think, not for others, but think for ourselves first. Think, with the thirst for knowledge, in search for true truth. This, I believe is the core of education, which is lacking in our society now. If this is true, then it is not because we do not receive education. Instead, it is of my personal belief, that the only reason is that we are being misinformed, deceived and miseducated.

How can this be true? That, does not matter, because context is not right. More importantly, we must seek an answer, an answer so we can know. All is possible, because all is within us. This is true, not because scientists or religion said so. This is true, solely because our oldest and most sacred texts<sup>3</sup> of knowledge say so, namely books such as but not limited to, the bible, the quran, various religious teachings, as well as that of all ancient cultures. All are related because all preach the same true truth; one in which love and light trumps all.

Why is this all relevant? Because all are fact, while all else is perception. To know right from wrong, we first require truth. Only then, can we begin the act of seeking the knowledge of light. Relevant here, is not religion, but spirituality. Because life is always a trinity. Just like a family is not complete without a child forming the trinity, physical and non-physical are not in balance without hope, faith, or love. This is true, because a leap of faith is required for the physical to enter the non-physical and for both dimensions to exist as one. Hence, religion is irrelevant, while it must be true that only spirituality is. This, is why.

If quantum represents science, spirit is everything else. Then; just like how quantum is the 1% of matter and all that is physical, it is not balanced by itself, because spirit is the 99% free energy that is all and unseen, and is that which brings balance, harmony, and infinity to the Universe.

Cogito ergo sum. Therefore, Cogito ergo.
